Mayor Peter Marchetti addressed the Board of Directors at their quarterly meeting, "The past several months have been unprecedented, and I want to thank the Berkshire Workforce Board members, staff, and partners for continuing the critical workforce programming to help our employers, job seekers, and youth with their employment and training needs. We know that the economic climate is challenging and many job seekers are facing barriers to employment, while our companies struggle to attract and retain talent. But despite this, there are great programs that are happening, and your good work is not going unnoticed.”
