

People

FROM PAGE 22

assistant town clerk/collector for the town of Great Barrington.

In his role, Mattingly will be engaging employers throughout Berkshire County to define their workforce needs and assist with recruitment and retention strategies. He will also oversee the Berkshire Skills Cabinet and lead industry advisory committees to identify retention and recruitment strategies, funding strategies, and training opportunities and will lead the Market Maker initiative for the Berkshires.

Mattingly previously served as the director of workforce development; advanced manufacturing at Berkshire Community College, and assisted in facilitating manufacturing training at the Berkshire County Jail and House of Correction. Mattingly holds a bachelor's degree in political science from Central Connecticut State University.

Steinhauer

Ilana Steinhauer, the executive director of Volunteers in Medicine Berkshires, has been elected to the board of trustees of Lee Bank. The bank has also named five new corporators.

Steinhauer, a family nurse practitioner, worked in a private medical practice in the Boston area before joining VIM, which based in Great Barrington. She earned her master's degree in nursing from the former Simmons College, now Simmons University, and a bachelor's degree in religion from Wesleyan University. She lives in Sheffield with her husband and two sons. VIM provides health care, free of charge, to low-income adults in the Berkshires who are uninsured or underinsured.

Rebecca Lilley has joined the Berkshire Berkshire Workforce Board as office executive, while Paul Mattingly has been named manager of industry relations.

Lilley

In her role, Lilley will be managing all aspects of the office and accounting functions of the board, provide human resources and coordinate staff training. She will also be responsible for database management, document control, and regulatory compliance. Lilley previously served as general manager of 33Main and worked as the

PEOPLE, Page 23

Leslie Gabriel has joined Manos Unidas as capital development/marketing director. A producer of video and audio content, Gabriel has a several years of experience in creating social media content, increasing awareness to produces the H2O "So It Flows," which previously worked for Berkshire Bank.

McNair

Stephanie McNair has assumed the role of brokerage manager for William Sotheby International Realty in two Berkshire County brokerages in Great Barrington and Lenox. A seasoned agent, McNair has been working in real estate since 2009, representing buyers and sellers throughout Western Massachusetts. McNair ran her own boutique real estate agency, Harvest Moon Realty from 2012 to 2017. Before that, she has various roles in marketing, public relations and crisis communications organizations including the American Diabetes Association, Baystate Health Systems and Six Flags International.

McNair is a longtime resident of Western Massachusetts and very active in her local community. She is co-founder of The Oxford House, a democratically run self-supporting drug recovery home with two Western Massachusetts locations, and an active supporter of The Open Pantry and Rays of Hope, having sat on the boards of both organizations. McNair is a lover of the outdoors, counting hiking, kayaking, tennis and golf as her spare-time passions.

Clough

Marnie Clough, Erica Samson Giregenti, Pamela Green and Sarah Eustis were all elected corporators of Community Bancorp of the Berkshires, MHC